

SLAPSA6:
Sixth Meeting of the Saint Louis Area Philosophy of Science Association
February 15, 2014
Washington University
104 Wilson Hall

9:30-9:45

Coffee and General Congregation

9:45-10:45

“Two Accounts of Explanatory Idealization in Boyle's Law”

KATY SHOREY, University of Missouri, Columbia

10:45-11:00 coffee break

11:00-12:00

“Animal Mindreading: What Are the Explanatory Constraints?”

MARTA HALINA, Washington University

12:00-1:30 break for lunch

1:30-2:30

“Causal Powers in the Advance of Science: The New Astronomy”

MIKE MAZZA, Saint Louis University

2:30-2:45 coffee break

2:45-3:45

“Nothing in Evolution Makes Sense Except in Light of Population Genetics?
Finding the Right Tool for the Job”

ANYA PLUTYNSKI, Washington University

3:45-4:00 coffee break

4:00-5:00

“From the Plurality of Worlds to the Multiverse: Towards a Physicalist Account of Modality”

JEREMY COMPTON, University of Missouri at Saint Louis

5:00-5:15 coffee break

5:15-6:15

“Evaluating the Episodic-Like Memory Research Program: Some Problems with Uniqueness-Based Research”

SARAH MALANOWSKI, Washington University